A NEW METHOD OF TEACHING THE GENER OF FRENCH NOUNS -11mo. Scotts.—
The author claims to have thoroughly overcome, in it pages only, what daily proves to be the greatest difficulty to every French Student. The Gender of French Nouns is here taught by terminations. Four Rythmic Tables contain these terminations, and will assist the learner in fixing them permanently in his memory. The categories are but few and are easily explained. With an Applabetical Table following the exceptions, the gender of every French Noun can be seen at a diamet, and the whole system cannot fail to be very useful, not easy to the popt, but also to the more advanced student. Published by RVE LOLENCOP & SON, No. 81 Breathers.

COUNT GASPARIN'S GREAT WORK IN REPUTATION OF MODERN SPIRITUALISM; PRESENTING A NATURAL EXPLANATION OF THE PRETENDED SUPERNATURAL. KIGGINS & KELLOGG have in press, and will publish in ever days:

SCIENCE vs. MODERN SPIRITUALISM: Or, TURNING
TABLES, THE SUPERNATURAL IN GENERAL AND SPIRITS
Translated from the French of Count Agenor de Gasparia. By E. W. Robert. With an Introduction by the Rev. Robert Baird,
D. D.

E.W. Robert. With an Introduction by the Rev. Robert Baird, D. D.

This is an elaborate analysis of the facts of the so-called modern Spiritualism. The learned author is of the Evangelical party atmosphere premisal foundation of really spiritual facts, it pretends to unsettle the essential faith of the Church by facts as undemiable as were those upon which the Church by facts as undemiable as were those upon which the Church arose. M. Gasparin has repeated all the experiments of the sol-disant Spiritualists, fairly and fully, and has successfully exploded their specious and bold hypothesis, by a rigidly scientific course of analysis. The Rev. Dr. Baird in his introduction to the work ways:

"In the work, to which these few paragraphs respecting its author will serve as an introduction, the reader will find a very full account of the experiments which Count Gasparin and his friends made with so much care, and on so many occasions, and the sometisaleus to which he came. He will find also the Count's speculations on other, and, in a certain sense, kindred emblects such as the Supermutral in general, the Agency of spirits, False and as the Supermutral in general, the Agency of spirits, False before a treated at length, with the virtuality which characterises the French mind, and in the style in which it expresses its coeceptions; and, so far as we are as bit to judge, with no ordinary ability. The translation—although by no means an easy task—has been well executed, and reflects great created at length, and the feet are later. Two large 120m, vola.; 940 pages. Price $2.50.

PRINCIPLES AND PRACTICES

OF THE BAPTISTS.

By Princip Waylands, B. D.

One volume, Ilmo. Price $1.

A new work by so distinguished an author as Dr. Wayland, is not otten offered to the public. Aside from its denominational character, it commends itself to the general reader, as the memors notices and critichens below will fully attest.

Dr. Wayland has here published in a collective form a series of atticles which originally appeared in The Examiner over the simulture of 'Roper Williams.' They are designed to litualize the distinctive belief of the Baptists, and like everything from the author are written with an ability and carefulness which will insure them an attentive permeal outside of the denomination Dr. whose use they are intended." [Evening Post.

"A sound and clear flinker, as well as a writer terre and vigorous, Dr. Wayland is not likely to commit anything to paper which is not worthy the attention of thoughtful and earnest, minds."

"The Rev. Doctor is an 'old fory' in Courch matters, and the fast Baptists in the Cleurch will find it hard to answer it.

"Thus his is a capital book, and we have risen from it refreshed by its novellies—we may add, antiquity often is so old that when revived, it seems all new. Thus Pampel, old as it is, it fessher to us than San Francisco or Sacramento; and so the antiquarian Doctor, in this fast age, becomes a novel and refreshing light.
